PREFACE.

IMMEDIATELY after the purchase and arrangement of the books that were to form the basis of the Library, it became a question with the Committee, whether they should be withheld from circulation until a complete Catalogue could be published, or whether the Library should be opened immediately, and visitors be subjected to the inconvenience of consulting manuscript catalogues at the Library Room.

The adoption of the first proposition would have very much lessened the difficulty of the work; but as there was manifested in the community an excusable impatience at any delay, and as the Committee were aware how imperfect an appreciation even an intelligent community has of the perplexities of this species of book-making, and of the time requisite for the actual labor attending it, it was thought advisable to adopt the latter course. It was accordingly voted to open the Library on the 18th of October last, and to publish, as soon after as practicable, a classified, alphabetical Catalogue.

The execution of the work was intrusted to the Librarian, who commenced his labors upon it in January.

He sincerely regrets that the very limited portion of his time he has been able to devote to it should have so long deprived the inhabitants of the town of a systematic and convenient key to the Library.

The plan adopted for the work is substantially the same as that of the recently published Catalogue of the Boston Mercantile Library, prepared by Mr. WILLIAM F. POOLE, the Librarian of that Association, to whose kindness and experience we are indebted for valuable suggestions in regard to its execution. According to this plan, every work appears alphabetically arranged, under the name of its author, and under its subject; or, if it be a work of fiction, under its title; so that one can hardly fail of finding the book he desires, if it belongs to the Library.

Every volume bears its own number opposite its title. Though prepared with some degree of care, the Catalogue is by no means free from errors. Several have already been noticed; but they are of such a character as not materially to affect its usefulness. A part of them are due to the fact that the Library was open to visitors, and the books in free circulation, during the whole time of its preparation.

It will be noticed that the list of works under many important subjects is very incomplete; but the comparatively small number of volumes in the collection, and the short time since the establishment of the Library, will be a sufficient explanation of this defect.

In the future expenditure of the means intrusted to them, the Committee will pay a due regard to supplying these deficiencies; and they hope, before the publication of a supplement shall be called for, to make the selection, in the various departments, much more complete.

PEABODY INSTITUTE,
SOUTH DANVERS, May, 1855.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

Upon the completion of this, the first Catalogue of the Library of the Peabody Institute, it seems not inappropriate to present, for the information of the public, some account of the origin of this institution, its design, and the success which has thus far attended its operations.

Its foundation is due to the munificence of George Peabody, Esq., now of London, who has chosen this method of conferring a lasting benefit on his native town. Of Mr. Peabody himself, it is needless for us to say any thing in this place. His public-spirited course during his residence abroad, and the zeal with which he has, on all occasions, upheld the honor and credit of his native land, have won for him the admiration of his countrymen, and have made his name familiar to every American. The circumstances attending the announcement of Mr. Peabody's gift are interesting. The citizens of Danvers had determined to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the existence of the town as a distinct municipal corporation, which fell upon Wednesday, the 16th of June, 1852. Although Mr. Peabody had long been absent, yet the many proofs by which he had, in previous instances, evinced his regard for the place of his birth, gave him peculiar claims to be included among the invited guests. Accordingly, an invitation was early forwarded to him, by the Committee of the town, to be present at that festival, with a request that, if unable to attend, he would signify by letter his interest in the occasion. In his reply, after stating that his engagements would allow him to comply only with the latter part of the request, he said, "I enclose a sentiment, which I ask may remain sealed till this letter is read on the day of celebration, according to the direction on the envelope."

The indorsement on the envelope of the sealed packet was as follows: —

"The seal of this is not to be broken till the toasts are being proposed by the Chairman, at the dinner, 16th June, at Danvers, in commemoration of the one hundredth year since its severance from Salem. It contains a sentiment for the occasion, from George Peabody, of London."

In obedience to the above direction, at the proper moment the reading of the communication was called for; and the following was received by the delighted audience with loud acclamations: —

"By GEORGE PEABODY, of London: —

"EDUCATION — A debt due from present to future generations.

"In acknowledgment of the payment of that debt by the generation which preceded me in my native town of Danvers, and to aid in its prompt future discharge, I give to the inhabitants of that town the sum of TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, for the promotion of knowledge and morality among them.

"I beg to remark, that the subject of making a gift to my native town has for some years occupied my mind; and I avail myself of your present interesting festival to make the communication, in the hope that it will add to the pleasures of the day.

"I annex to the gift such conditions only as I deem necessary for its preservation and the accomplishment of the purposes before named. The conditions are, that the legal voters of the town, at a meeting to be held at a convenient time after the 16th June, shall accept the gift, and shall elect a Committee, of not less than twelve persons, to receive and have charge of the same, for the purpose of establishing a Lyceum for the delivery of lectures, upon such subjects as may be designated by a Committee of the town, free to all the inhabitants, under such rules as said Committee may from time to time enact; and that a Library shall be obtained, which shall also be free to the inhabitants, under the direction of the Committee.

"That a suitable building for the use of the Lyceum shall be erected, at a cost, including the land, fixtures, furniture, &c., not exceeding seven thousand dollars, and shall be located within one-third of a mile of the Presbyterian Meeting House, occupying the spot of that formerly under the pastoral care of the Rev. Mr. Walker, in the south parish of Danvers.

"That ten thousand dollars of this gift shall be invested by the town's Committee, in undoubted securities, as a permanent fund, the interest arising therefrom to be expended in support of the Lyceum.

"In all other respects, I leave the disposition of the affairs of the Lyceum to the inhabitants of Danvers, — merely suggesting that it might be advisable for them, by their own act, to exclude sectarian theology and political discussions for ever from the walls of the institution.

"I will make one request of the Committee; which is, if they see no objection, and my venerable friend, Capt. Sylvester Proctor, should be living, that he be selected to lay the corner-stone of the Lyceum building.

"Respectfully yours,

"GEORGE PEABODY."

We extract the following from the town records, to show the manner in which the conditions mentioned above were complied with: —

"At a legal meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Danvers, qualified to vote in town affairs, holden at Union Hall, in the south parish in said town, on Monday, the 28th day of June, 1852.

"The original communication from George Peabody, Esq., was read by the Moderator. The following resolves, prepared and submitted by Dr. ANDREW NICHOLS, were unanimously adopted: —

"Resolved, That we, the legal voters of the town of Danvers, in legal meeting assembled, accept, with deep emotions of gratitude, the munificent gift of George Peabody, Esq., of London, of TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, for the promotion of knowledge and morality among us; and we, with due sense of its importance to ourselves and to those who are to succeed us, accept the offered trust, and bind ourselves faithfully, ardently, and constantly to endeavor to fulfil the wishes and accomplish the noble purpose of the generous donor, and to enjoin on our successors a like performance of the same sacred duty.

"Resolved, That we now proceed to the choice of a Committee of twelve persons, to receive and have in charge the said donation, for the purpose of establishing a Lyceum, for the delivery of lectures upon such subjects, exclusive of sectarian theology and party politics, as may be designated by a Committee of the town, free to all the inhabitants, under such rules as said Committee may from time to time enact; and to establish a Library, which shall also be free to the inhabitants, under the direction of the Committee.

"Resolved, That the members of said Committee shall exercise all the authority and perform all the duties contemplated by the donor, and shall hold office by the following tenure; viz., two of the twelve shall hold office until the annual meeting in 1858; two until 1857; two until 1856; two until 1855; two until 1854; two until 1853; or, in all cases, until others shall be chosen and accept the trust in their stead. And it shall be the duty of said Committee, as soon as may be after their organization, to determine, either by agreement or by lot, who of this number shall hold the office for the several times named, and communicate the same to the Clerk of the town, whose duty it shall be to enter the same on the records. And it shall be the duty of the Selectmen to order, in every warrant for the annual town meeting hereafter, the inhabitants to choose or give in their votes for two persons, to become members of said Committee for the term of six years, in the place of those whose term of office at that time expires, and to fill all vacancies caused by death, resignation, or removal from the town.

"Resolved, That the aforesaid Committee of Trustees appoint annually, from the citizens of the town at large, another Committee, who shall select books for the Library, designate the subjects for lectures, procure lecturers, enact rules and regulations, both in regard to the lectures and the library, and perform all such other duties as the Committee shall assign to them; and they shall make a full report of all their doings to the Trustees semi-annually; viz., on or before the second Monday in February and August.

"Resolved, That the Committee of Trustees be also required to make a full report of their own doings, and the doings of the Committee by them appointed, at the annual town meeting, previous to the choice of members of said Committee above provided for.

"Resolved, That it shall be the duty of said Committee to correspond with the benevolent donor while he lives, and, in all their doings, pay all due regard to his expressed wishes.

"On motion made, it was also voted, —

"That the Institution established by this donation be called and known as the PEABODY INSTITUTE, and that this name be inscribed, in legible characters, upon the front of the building to be erected, that, in future years, our children may be reminded of their fathers' benefactor, and that strangers may read the name of him whom Danvers will always be proud to claim as her son.

"That our venerable and respected fellow-citizen, Capt. Sylvester Proctor, be invited, in behalf of the town, and in accordance with the special request of his early and constant friend, Mr. Peabody, to assist in laying the corner-stone of the proposed edifice.

"That the Board of Trustees, chosen this day, forward a certified copy of the proceedings of this meeting to Mr. Peabody."

The following gentlemen were then elected Trustees, by ballot: —

R. S. Daniels,	Francis Baker,
E. W. Upton,	Eben Sutton,
S. P. Fowler,	W. L. Weston,
Joseph Osgood,	Joseph Poor,
Miles Osborn,	A. F. Clark,
Eben King,	Joseph S. Black.

The proceedings of the town, having been transmitted to Mr. Peabody, received his approval. The officers of the Institute, therefore, are a Board of Trustees chosen by the town, in whom are vested its funds and other property, for the purpose of maintaining a Lyceum and Library; and another Board, chosen annually by the Trustees, called the Lyceum and Library Committee, whose duties are to superintend and direct all its active operations.

Mr. Peabody afterwards added TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS to his first donation; the whole to be so expended, that seventeen thousand dollars should be appropriated for the land and building, three thousand to the purchase of books, as the foundation of a Library, and ten thousand to remain as a permanent fund.

The difficulty of procuring a suitable lot of land, within the prescribed distance from the meeting-house, caused some delay in the erection of the building. But at length a site was selected on Main Street; and the corner-stone of the new structure was laid, with appropriate ceremonies, on the 20th of August, 1853, — Hon. Abbott Lawrence, an intimate friend of Mr. Peabody, performing the part assigned to Capt. Sylvester Proctor, who had deceased. The building was finished in the course of the following year, and dedicated to its future uses on the 29th of September, 1854. Hon. Rufus Choate delivered an eloquent address on that occasion.

It is a stately edifice, eighty-two feet in length by fifty in breadth, built of brick, and ornamented with brown Connecticut freestone. On its front, a slab of freestone bears the words, PEABODY INSTITUTE, in relief. The Lecture Hall, occupying the whole of the upper story, is finished with neatness and simplicity, and is furnished with seats for about seven hundred and fifty persons. Over the rostrum hangs a full-length portrait of Mr. Peabody, by Healey, which has been pronounced by connoisseurs to be a chef d'œuvre of that artist. It was set for by him at the request of the citizens of the town, but, at its completion, was presented to them. The Library Room, in the lower story, is commodiously arranged for the delivery of books. The shelves for books are placed around the walls of the room; but, by the addition of alcoves, its capacity can be greatly increased.

The first course of lectures was delivered in the Lyceum Hall, during the last season, to large and attentive audiences. The situation of Danvers,* within an hour's ride, by railroad, of the metropolis, is highly favorable for availing herself of the best talent in this field of literary labor.

This department of the Institute formed a prominent feature of it in the design of its founder, and, we think, deservedly so. Indeed, this method of conveying knowledge, in connection with the common school and higher seminaries of learning, must now be ranked among the principal educational appliances peculiar to the social system of New England. The success of the Lowell Institute in Boston, and other similar institutions, abundantly attest the truth of this remark. The efforts which have of late been made to present, by means of series of lectures, the outlines of science to the public, have met the approbation of all friends of learning. Doubtless the ardor of youth is often thus incited to efforts which may lead to future distinction. The greatest minds of our country have not thought it beneath their dignity thus to lend their aid in infusing a spirit of self-culture among the people.

The attention of the Lyceum and Library Committee was early directed to the formation of a Library. The selection of books, preliminary to an extended purchase, was found to be a work of no small difficulty; for, while they appreciated the importance of laying a broad foundation, they also felt it to be their duty to render the Library not only "free to the inhabitants," but truly useful to all the citizens. In forming lists, therefore, under the general heads of science, history, belles-lettres, &c., they gave the preference rather to such works as they believed would meet the wants of the reading community, than to those more elaborate productions which are better calculated to aid the extended researches of the scholar; trusting that the Library would, by future accessions, gradually arrive at that symmetry and completeness so desirable to be attained. Pursuing this plan, the Committee were relieved from much embarrassment, and were enabled to prosecute their labor with so much success, that, as soon as the

* By an Act of the Legislature, passed May 18, 1855, that part of the town in which the Peabody Institute is located was incorporated as a new town, by the name of South Danvers; but the privileges of the Institute will continue to be enjoyed by all within the limits of the former town of Danvers.

Library Room was ready to receive them, about 1,500 volumes had been prepared to be placed upon its shelves.

In December, 1854, a donation of books was unexpectedly received from Mr. Peabody, — affording a new proof of his generosity, and his continuing interest in the institution that bears his name. These books, in all about 2,500 volumes, were selected by his order, in London, by Mr. Henry Stevens, agent of the Smithsonian Institution. They comprise many valuable and even rare works; among which may be mentioned the "Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society," and a complete set of the "Gentleman's Magazine." Subsequent additions to the Library, by purchase and by gift, have increased the number of volumes to above 5,000: of the latter, about 200 volumes were received from the Mechanic Institute, — an association that had existed in the town since 1841, and had itself been preceded by the Lyceum Society.

The Library has been open for the delivery of books about nine months, with the most gratifying result. During library hours, which at present are the afternoon and evening of Wednesday and Saturday, the room has been thronged with eager applicants; and their choice of works is, in general, highly creditable to their literary taste. It appears from the ledger, that, during this period, commencing Oct. 18, 1854, 1,356 persons have availed themselves of its privileges; and that, during four months of this time, commencing Nov. 11, the number of volumes taken was 11,866, — an average of 349 each library day. For the success of this department of the Institute, much credit is due to the efforts of Mr. Eugene B. Hinkley, the present Librarian, by whom this Catalogue has been compiled. The regulations concerning the distribution of books are as few and simple as is consistent with their safety and prompt return; and, although the rules in regard to delinquents have been rigidly adhered to, it has seldom been necessary to put them in force.

Such, in brief, is the history of the establishment of this Institution in our midst; and, henceforth, we trust that the Peabody Institute will exert an important influence in the cause of education.
